

HEIRLOOM SEED PROJECT

Established more than thirty years ago at Landis Valley Village & Farm Museum, the Heirloom Seed Project focuses on seed preservation, growing heirloom varieties of vegetables that have historical significance for Pennsylvania Germans from 1750 to 1940.

The Heirloom Seed Project is staffed primarily by volunteers who tend the gardens and preserve and package the heirloom seeds. Our vegetables are grown without the use of pesticides.

Heirloom or open-pollinated fruit brings our history into the present with flavors and beauty from the past.

Gardeners can save seeds from heirloom varieties with the assurance that the fruit from each new generation of plants will bear fruit that is like the fruit from past seasons.

2020 Notes

The 2019 season produced a nice crop of Dr. Martin Lima beans. Please note the price increase to $4.50.

There are 12 seeds per package.

More fiber flax seed has arrived from the Holland. We can now fill orders for larger amounts of seed.

Phone the museum at 717-569-0401, ex. 204 for more information.

DONATIONS

Donations are greatly appreciated. The generosity of persons like yourself directly enhances the work of the Heirloom Seed Project.
